Hon. Basil Gordon announced himself as a candidate for congress in the 7th Congressional District, last Monday. There are now five candidates in the field, viz: Hon. Basil Gordon, Micajah Wood, Esq., of Albemarle, Hon. S. S. Turner, of Warren, A. Moore, Esq., of Clarke and Hon. M. L. Walton, of Shenandoah. As soon as Col. O'Ferrall resigns his seat, there will be considerable activity in the camp. A convention, we suppose, will be called to nominate a candidate, and where the lightning will strike, we are all in blissful ignorance.

The Lynchburg Advance says: The Hon. Jefferson M. Levy, of Charlottesville, president of the Virginia League of Democratic Clubs, has consented to be a candidate for Congress to succeed the Hon. Charles T. O'Ferrall.

NEWS AND COMMENT.

The democratic State central and executive committee will meet at Richmond on the 23d to discuss the political situation and prepare for a more vigorous prosecution of the campaign work.

A northern newspaper says the bombardment of Rio de Janeiro "was a barbaric crime." During the war between the States, northern newspapers had nothing but praise to speak of the bombardment of cities in the South, though they asserted that those cities were not out of the Union and were inhabited by their own fellow citizens. Geographical position is a potential factor in the formation of northern opinion. —Atz Gazette.

The Bedford Democrat says "we need more statesmen and fewer professional 'practical' politicians in our legislative assemblies," and the Democrat is right about it. One statesman is worth a dozen small fry politicians who seem to think that because they want to legislate for the people, they are entitled to any place to which they aspire. Machine politics has been a curse to the country, and a full exposure of some of the low tricks of machine politicians may surprise the people and relegate to the shades, where they belong, the onerous tricksters who are always prepared to sell their constituency for even less than a mess of pottage.

The Times is taking no part whatever in promoting the candidacy of any individual, but it has a word to say on one occasion, of a general nature. We hear an occasional suggestion that it is time Virginia was cutting loose from the war and selecting her representative men from persons in no way identified with the war. The Times is for no man, but the Times will never hear this and hold its peace. We have now in the Senate two men who distinguished themselves in the defense of Virginia in her dire need, and we trust the time will never come during their lives, when Virginians who shed their blood on her battlefields will not have a distinct claim upon her by reason of that very fact. The Virginian who was true to his State during the four long and trying years of the war, who labored his breast willingly to every shot aimed at her, and cheerfully offered up everything he had in life to aid in driving a ruthless and devastating invader from her soil, proved himself in doing this to be a man who will represent her now, wherever he is sent, with that same fidelity and courage which made her glorious then. Virginia owes these men a debt of gratitude which can never be paid and which is worthy to represent her in the halls of her State.

We trust we shall hear no more of this suggestion. Virginia frankly admits the call that those men have upon her, and they run no risk of being turned out upon the common to graze by her, as Tillman's gang has made South Carolina do with her great and illustrious son, General Wade Hampton. —Rich. Times.

The Cause of It.
Bradstreet's of the 9th of September says: "Is confidence returning, are banks and investors lending more freely, are prices of securities and of staples advanced and are industrial establishments resuming work because the tariff is likely to be changed?" Its answer to its own question is that the tariff neither caused the recent financial crisis nor is it causing the revival of business. What caused the crisis, says this authority, was "a well defined and well-grounded fear of a depreciation of the standard of value in the United States caused by the enforced purchase of $500,000,000 of silver cash month." This "fear" caused "the withdrawal of foreign funds invested here by individuals and by savings banks to meet possible contingencies."

The crisis has been relieved within the past month to a very appreciable extent. "Hoarding and the premium on currency," says Bradstreet's, "have disappeared, domestic exchange rates have become active, not only normal, the banks have stopped taking out clearing-house certificates and have advised Southern and Western correspondents that they will be able to advance funds to move the crops, banking suspensions have practically stopped and the number of commercial and industrial failures has dropped off 17 to 20 per cent, and a better feeling is manifest in business circles North, East, South and West." When did this improvement begin and what was the cause of it? Bradstreet's finds the cause of it in the prompt action of the House on the Sherman act and the assurance that the Senate would take the action. If the Senate should disappoint the general expectation the conditions would exist for renewed distrust. "The points," says Bradstreet's, "are that the tariff 'did it,' but the fear that the government could not continue to keep all currency at par with gold."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(Written and compiled for the HERALD.)

WASHINGTON, Sep. 18, 1893.—Senator Voorhees is not so confident as he was of winning the Senatorial battle now being fought over silver. He no longer hints of being able to win some mysterious power that will help him to compel the opposition to allow a vote to be taken. Speaking of the outlook he says: "There is no power on the earth, in the Heavens above nor the depths below that will compel the Senate to vote on the repeal bill. It will be from now on merely a test of personal endurance on both sides. I shall move for longer sessions at an early day." The only reason why Mr. Voorhees does not at once move for longer sessions or for a continuous session is that he fears defeat, which would be fatal to his bill. He knows, as does every body else that a majority of the Senators would vote for his bill if a vote could be taken. But he does not know—and there is the rub—that a majority will vote either to lengthen or to remain in continuous session night and day until a vote is reached. The highest claim made by the repealers is that 49 Senators will vote with them. Allowing that claim to be correct it leaves a very small margin to work on should a continuous session be held, as that would necessitate the continual presence of at least 49 of them, it being certain that the silver men would not assist in making a quorum. But it is positively known that some of the republican repealers will not remain in their seats should an attempt be held to hold a continuous session; three of them have so stated publicly. President Cleveland still refuses his sanction to any compromise, and insists that the repeal bill be forced to a vote. It is too much easier to insist than it is to do it. Conservative Senators have not abandoned hope of reaching some sort of a compromise, with or without the consent of President Cleveland.

It is worth nothing as a curious phase of the tariff question that wealthy manufacturers, supposed to be deeply interested in keeping up protective duties, are bringing influence to bear on republican members of the House for the purpose of preventing any serious opposition being made to the proposed anti-protection tariff bill. That is, opposition that they say they are anxious to have the tariff put into operation at the earliest possible moment, in order that its work may be fully understood and approved or condemned by the people in 1898. Other people say that the manufacturers are preparing to make a big cut all around in wages and that that is the secret of their not wishing the new tariff bill to be delayed.

Notwithstanding the express wish of Mr. Cleveland that it should not be done until after the Senate had disposed of the repeal bill, the democratic leaders of the House are evidently determined that the bill for the repeal of the federal election laws shall be reported at once and be taken up by the House. There were so many democratic absentees last week that the leaders could not muster a quorum, but they say they will have a quorum of democrats this week and go ahead with the bill. Mr. Cleveland is said by some to have used his influence to keep the House without a quorum so as to prevent the reporting of the bill at this time, but too many without prejudice think that if any influence is needed to make the members of the House, that is, a great many of them, absent themselves from their duties. Mr. Cleveland fears the effect of the partisan debate which this bill will certainly precipitate upon the republican Senators who favor the Voorhees bill.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN JEFFERSON PARISH, LOUISIANA.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 18.—Three negroes were lynched in the parish of Jefferson at midnight Saturday. Since the murder of Judge Victor Eschscholtz and the mortal wounding of his son on Friday at the negro Julien, excitement has been at high pitch in that parish, and parties of white men on foot and on horses have been scouring the country looking for the murderer. Julien's three brothers and two cousins had been locked up in jail on suspicion of conspiracy. About 11 o'clock a body consisting of about 25 men, some armed with rifles and shotguns, came to the jail and lighted a lantern. They unlocked the door and then held a conference among themselves as to what they should do. Some were in favor of hanging the whole five, while others raised objections, and insisted that only two of the brothers, the short one and the tall one should be taken out and strung up. This was finally agreed to, and several of the men went into the jail, and coming out afterward, brought with them the two doomed negroes. They were hurried across to a pasture, 100 yards distant, and there strung up. The third brother was taken to Camp Parapet and hanged there.

Gold on Rock Creek.

The Roanoke Record says: Many geologists have long been of the opinion that gold existed in the spine of some of our mountains, and that the indications were especially favorable in the neighborhood of Rock Creek and Bent Mountain. Prospectors have for some time been looking around in these sections, and as an indication that "pay dirt" has been struck, options have been taken by responsible parties during the last few days for $50,000 on the farm of Roland Sears, $75,000 on that of Luke Sears, $30,000 on Dan Kittling's place, and for $10,000 on the land of Jas. McGray. This looks like business, and it is to be hoped that the golden dreams of the prospectors will be fully realized.

The Train Robbers Captured.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 18.—Tonight practically all the men who had anything to do with the robbery of the Mineral Range Express last Friday of $70,000, are in jail or under espionage, and up to date, $14,000 of their booty has been recovered. To-day George Liberte, a former fireman on the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic road, was arrested here by the police, on the telegraphic order of the sheriff of Houghton county and made a clean breast of the whole affair.

The other men under arrest are A. Scaron, of Hancock, a young man of good family, whose trunk was used to carry away the money; John King, an athlete, Chellev, a saloon keeper, of Negaunee; Michael and John Shea, saloonists here; Tom Winters, baggage-man; D. W. Hogan the messenger on the robbed car; Ed. Hogan, saloonist, W. Shoupe, hack-driver and —Butler, an habitee of Chellev's place. Liberte in his confession gave a detailed account of where the trunk was left along the line of the Mineral Range road, and a special train and some officers were sent after it. They found the trunk, and on its arrival at the Houghton National Bank it was opened and found empty. On Liberte's information $14,000 was recovered by the officers, it is claimed at Shea Brothers' saloon.

The empty condition of the trunk is accounted for by the suggestion that the money was stolen a second time, last from the robbers themselves, and Messrs. Hogan's brother is being looked for in connection with this latest episode. It is now proposed to re-arrest Jack Kehoe, who was released Friday because it seemed evident he had nothing to do with it. It has since leaked out that he purchased the cloth of which the masks were made at one of the stores at Hancock, took it with him to Calumet, and there manufactured the masks for the robbers. Cannon, whose trunk was used, denies any complicity in the robbery.

Prosecuting Attorney Young, of Marquette county, is arranging for the examination of all the men arrested. They will probably be given preliminary trial to-morrow.

To the Democrats of Shenandoah County.

NEW MARKET, Va., Sept. 20, 1893.

We the undersigned Democrats of New Market precinct, having learned that Mr. J. N. Brennan has been urged against Mr. J. N. Brennan as a candidate for the Legislature of Virginia, by certain parties, on account of his not being a farmer and real estate owner, desire to say to our fellow Democrats of Shenandoah County, that Mr. Brennan has lived among us for nearly twenty years, and has proved to be a worthy and useful citizen. That he has the welfare of the community at heart, has been fully demonstrated by his broad liberality, having contributed largely of his means and his time in the execution of works for public improvement and convenience. He is a man of character and energy, and we, as taxpayers, are not only willing, but anxious, that he shall represent our interests in the next Legislature. If we know him best are willing to trust our interests in his hands, we feel sure that this fact will satisfy those of our citizens who do not know him. We believe he is entitled to the nomination from the party as a reward for his long service and untiring energy as Chairman of the Democratic party. He is capable and honest, and, if elected, would do both himself and the county credit. We present him to you as our candidate, believing that the Democracy of Shenandoah County will recognize his superior claims.

Lynchers in Amelia.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 15.—A mob of twenty-five broke into the Amelia county jail at an early hour this morning, and took Jesse Mitchell, a negro, charged with outraging Mary Thrauer, a white girl, aged twelve, and hung him to a tree and riddled his body with bullets. Mitchell was twice tried and sentenced, but each time got off on a technicality, and he was to have had his third trial today. The jailer heard the men breaking into the jail, but was afraid to interfere. The brute paid for mercy, but without avail. A Methodist minister appeared on the scene, and begged the mob to desist, but to no purpose. The crime was committed twenty years ago. Mitchell was kept in Richmond for safe-keeping, except when taken to the county seat for trial. Last night he was not under special protection, and the lynchers took advantage of it.

(Communication.)

TO THE ED. OF THE SHEN. HERALD:—I desire through the columns of your esteemed paper to say a few words to the farmers of this county, and to all voters, as the interests of all are dependent upon the success of the agricultural interests of the county.

I desire simply to say that a number of the farmers of Ashby District have prevailed upon Capt. J. G. Neff to allow his name to be placed before the people of this county as a candidate for the House of Delegates this fall.

Capt. Neff is a farmer of experience, a thoroughly tried and efficient man, a man whose every interest is identified with the interests of this county, and one who can be safely relied upon to stand by the interests of his constituency.

If this county desires a representative in the legislature who will stand by their interests, they must select a man whose interests are identified with the prevailing interests of the county.

What is the secret of the success of the manufacturing interests of the North for the last 25 years? Each manufacturing community has uniformly selected to represent it in National and State legislatures, a man identified with themselves, a business man, a man who knows from his very familiarity with his own business, just what character of legislation is needed to advance the interests of his constituency, and what will be the effect of any proposed legislation upon those interests. In other words, they have to represent men parties whose business interests are the same as their own. The manufacturer will look out for the interests of manufacturers, because they are his own interests, and because he understands the wants and requirements of those interests. The same way will the experienced and intelligent farmer will be prepared to look out for his own interests in the business with which he has identified himself, and necessarily to advance at the same time the interests of farmers generally, and the rule holds good with every business or pursuit, the man is best fitted to represent any community, who can best represent that community by representing his own interests. The politician pure and simple, has a business peculiar to himself as well as the farmer or manufacturer, but the only class identified with him in interest are the parties who expect to live out of politics, it is with this class that his interest lies and for them necessarily that his energy will be exerted.

I conclude, therefore, that it is to the interest of this county, where, everything is dependent upon the prosperity of its agricultural interests, to select the best man from among its good farmers to send to the legislature this fall. That man I am confident can be found in Capt. Neff. If the farmers desire to look out for themselves then, they should determine to attend the primaries throughout the county when called, and see that only men favorable to their views are selected to represent them as delegates to the convention to be called to nominate a candidate for the House of Delegates within the near future. I AM A FARMER.

Train Robbers in Georgia.

SAN MERVILLE, Ga., Sept. 17.—Three men, supposed to be white, held up and boarded a northbound freight train on the Georgia Central Railroad at Lyster yesterday morning. When the train arrived at Raccoon Mills, the men got off and ran through the woods.

The conductor telegraphed for Marshal Thomas Murphy, who started in pursuit with an armed posse of 500 men. When near Tryon the men were overtaken in an old swamp and surrounded. Just as the posse came in sight the men shot and killed an old man named James who was quietly walking along the edge of the swamp. When the posse surrounded the men an exchange of shots took place, during which Major Arrington received a bullet wound in the side of the face. Marshal Murphy was shot in the hip, but not seriously wounded. The posse held the men at bay all day. No advance will be made until morning. Sheriff Moore left for the scene last night on a special train with an armed posse.

$50 A YEAR FOR LIFE.

A man once entered a prison where was confined a condemned criminal.
